The Sedek are one of the indigenous peoples of Taiwan, mainly found in Nantou and Hualien Counties. Known for their traditional tattoos, clothing, and art, the Sedek are a brave and passionate people, and have been widely discussed for their participation in the production of the movie "Sedek Barai". The Qingliu tribe is one of the most important settlements of the Sedek tribe and is located in the Mutual Aid Village in Renai Township, Nantou County. The area is mainly inhabited by the surviving clans and their descendants who survived the Wushe incident and were forcibly relocated there by the Japanese government at the time. The area is surrounded by the Beigang and Meibara Rivers, so it was once called "Chuanzhong Island" during Japanese rule.

The most famous attraction in the tribe is the Wusha Incident Memorial Hall. The memorial hall is made of two floors of masonry, and the black and white patterns on the exterior show the unique ethnic art of the Sedek people. Inside the museum, artifacts and pictures are displayed to explain the events of the Wushe incident, and costumes and props from the film "Cedric Barlet" are also on display. In the museum, there is a special docent to explain the incident and a cultural experience course, so that every visitor to the museum can have a clearer understanding of what happened.

The Qingliu Tribe is also a famous art village with many colorful murals and three-dimensional sculptures that show the unique aesthetic style of the Sedek tribe. The entire village is an important venue for Sedgwick culture and art, with exhibitions and cultural events held from time to time. At the same time, the local indigenous people have also combined their skills in traditional weaving and wood carving to offer several ethnic-specific experiential courses and activities, allowing visitors to get closer to the daily lives of the local people and gain a deeper understanding of the Sedek culture.

霧社事件

Wùshè shìjiàn

賽德克族一度遭受過霧社事件的屠殺。霧社事件是在日治時期台灣原住民反抗統治的重要事件之一，也是台灣歷史上的一個傷痛事件。這場事件讓人們更加關切原住民族的權益和保護，也讓更多人了解賽德克族文化。

- 起因——政府對於原住民族的不公正對待

當時政府強制實施「文化同化」政策，強制將原住民族的生活方式、語言、信仰等進行統一。這種政策的實施，對原住民族的文化傳承和生活造成了極大的影響。加上日治時期對於原住民土地、資源的獨佔，使得原住民與政府之間的矛盾日益激化。

- 導火線——1930年10月7日的「敬酒風波」

根據警方紀錄，霧社事件起因於馬赫坡社的一場婚宴，當地警察吉村克己拒絕接受達多·莫那的敬酒，並用警棍打傷了他的手，雙方因此發生肢體衝突。事後，吉村選擇拒絕接受莫那·魯道的道歉並威脅報告上級。此舉激起族人恐懼，加上對政府長期以來的不滿，最終決定起事。

- 經過——1930年5月27日

在霧社公校舉行例行運動會期間，馬赫坡頭目莫那·魯道率領超過300名賽德克勇士發動襲擊，導致多名日本民眾喪生。此事件觸怒了當時的殖民政府，引發強烈的軍事報復。雙方進行激烈的衝突，政府軍隊在反擊時甚至使用國際禁止使用的化學毒氣等方式，結果造成雙方都產生嚴重的傷亡和慘痛的損失。

- 結果

事情的最後造成了大量的傷亡，莫那·魯道和數百名賽德克人最終選擇自殺，賽德克族幾乎被滅族，餘生者被政府強制遷至川中島。

- 影響

霧社事件對當時的原住民族和政府對待原住民政策產生了深遠的影響。首先，霧社事件對於賽德克族部落造成了重大的損失，導致族人傷亡慘重、部落被摧毀，並強制遷移至川中島。此事件揭示了原住民族面臨的歧視與壓迫，也反映了原住民族和政府之間存在的不信任和衝突。

莫那·魯道和其他賽德克勇士犧牲了自己的生命，捍衛了自己的文化和傳統。代表原住民族對於自身文化的重視和堅持，並凸顯出當時的政策無法保護原住民族的權益和文化傳承。

最後，霧社事件引起了國際社會的關注，使得當時的殖民政府在國際壓力下逐漸調整其對待原住民的政策，逐漸將理蕃政策轉向保護和發展原住民文化，為臺灣原住民爭取到更多的權益。

霧社事件激發了臺灣原住民自我認同和團結意識的覺醒。原住民為了守護自己的文化和尊嚴，不惜犧牲生命，這種英勇的精神和對自身文化的自豪感，深入原住民社會中，也激勵了原住民社會不斷爭取權益和發展文化的努力。

霧社事件 (Wushe Incident)

Wùshè shìjiàn

The Seediq people were once massacred in the Wushe Incident. The Wushe Incident was one of the most important events in Taiwan's aboriginal resistance to rule during the Japanese rule and a traumatic event in Taiwan's history. This incident has raised concern for the rights and protection of the indigenous peoples and has led to a greater understanding of the Seediq culture.

- Causes - Unfair treatment of indigenous peoples by the government

The government enforced a policy of "cultural assimilation", forcing the unification of the way of life, language, and beliefs of the indigenous peoples. The implementation of this policy had a great impact on the cultural heritage and livelihood of the indigenous people. In addition, the exclusive occupation of the land and resources of the aborigines led to the intensification of the conflict between the aborigines and the government.

- The trigger - the "Toast" on October 7, 1930

According to the police records, the Wushe Incident began with a wedding banquet at the Mahepo community, where a local police officer, Katsumi Yoshimura, injured Mona Rudo's eldest son, Dado Mona, with his baton in a dispute over a toast, leading to a fight between the two. After the incident, Yoshimura chose to refuse to accept Mona Ludo and threatened to report him to his superiors. This provoked fears among the clan and dissatisfaction with the colonial government, which led to a decision to revolt.

- The process - May 27, 1930

During the regular field day at the Wushe public school, Mahepo chief Mona Rudo led more than 300 people to fight. The attack was led by Mona Rudo, the leader of Mahepo, who led more than 300 Seediq warriors, resulting in the death of many Japanese. The incident angered the government and sparked strong military retaliation, with fierce clashes between the two sides, including the use of chemical gas, which was internationally banned. The incident angered the colonial government and triggered strong military retaliation. Both sides engaged in fierce clashes, and the government forces even used internationally banned chemical gas in their counterattack, resulting in serious casualties and tragic losses on both sides.

霧社事件 (Wushe Incident)

Wùshè shìjiàn

- The Result

The incident ended with a large number of casualties. The Seediqs were almost exterminated and the remaining survivors were forcibly relocated to Chuanzhong Island by the government.

- Impact

The Wushe incident profoundly impacted the indigenous peoples of the time and the government's policy toward the indigenous people. First, the Wushe Incident caused significant damage to the Seediq tribe, resulting in heavy casualties and destruction of the tribe, and forced relocation to Chuanzhong Island. This incident revealed the discrimination and oppression faced by the indigenous people and reflected the mistrust and conflict between the indigenous people and the government.

Mona Rudo and other Seediq warriors sacrificed their lives to defend their culture and traditions. The incident reveals the importance and persistence of the indigenous people in their own culture and highlights the failure of the policies of the time to protect the rights and cultural heritage of the indigenous people.

Eventually, the Wushe Incident aroused international concern and the colonial government of the time gradually adjusted its policy towards the Aborigines in response to international pressure, gradually shifting its policy to protect and develop the culture of the Aborigines and to fight for more rights for the aborigines in Taiwan.

The Wushe Incident stimulated an awakening of self-identity and solidarity among Taiwan's aborigines. This spirit of bravery and pride in their own culture was deeply rooted in the Aboriginal community and inspired the aboriginal community to continue to fight for their rights and cultural development.
